SPREAD THE LOVE, A BIT, A LOT

By Laura Hédon & Sophie Bordet-Petillon

A little girl comes to town, clinging to a dandelion seed driven by the wind.
With its asphalt roads, the city does not seem hospitable to plants at all.
But the girl and her seed discover tree bottoms and green roofs...
And they decide to settle in.

*This silent book conveys all the sounds, smell... and poetry of the Spring season!
Meet a girl and a seed in their journey to the city and the people who live in it, sometimes hoping for a greener life.*

20 x 25 cm - 40 pages.

BONUS!

A short documentary section ends the book, telling about seeds & weeds growing on asphalt, as well as areas that people of the city now occupy to bring back nature to urban life.

WHERE TO GO?

By Cécile Serres

A silent book for topics that leave us speechless:
a polar bear is drifting away on an ice chunk,
a migrant child is getting away from war.
Two parallel journeys, two lives taken away from their heroes who wait to see where they will wait... until they meet in a poetic mirror.

This double-sided book, which can be flipped to be read from either side, is entirely illustrated with biro pen, for an amazing result.

21,5 x 28,5 cm - 32 pages.

WHERE DO ROOTS GO?

By Isabelle Collioud & Anne Derenne

By simply looking at a tree, it's so hard to imagine that its roots live such a hectic life underground! One could think that trees do not talk. Yet, this title will explain how trees communicate, interact and help each other thanks to a complex and amazing green network made by roots.

20 x 20 cm – 36 pages.

Heads or Tail? Just flip the book!

The Heads or Tails collection is intended to help children discover nature from both a fictional and a scientific point of view as they wish. Indeed, these illustrated double side books are designed to be flipped over and read from either side.

If the reader chooses the Tell me a story side, he will dive into the magical world of tree roots that can walk, play and meet with other small living beings.

If the reader prefers the Teach me side, he will turn the book upside down to read more about where tree roots go and what is their purpose.

WHAT DO TREE TRUNKS HIDE?

By Isabelle Collioud & Anne Derenne

When considering tree attentively, one notices that trunks are very different from each other!

What secrets are tree trunks hiding?

Children often ask of trees are alive. In the documentary part, they will find answers and discover what trees need to get tall and strong... and that, like us, each is different with its branches, trunk, bark colour, root shapes...

20 x 20 cm – 36 pages.
